

Burlington Police Department Hate Crime Offenses: 2012 – November 2018

The Burlington Police Department, in collaboration with The Police Foundation, is publishing data on hate crimes in the community. Hate crimes are often unreported and therefore not well documented. By releasing this information to the public in the form of open data, the BPD can help narrow the reporting gap, call more attention to the problem in an effort to better prevent these incidents, and set a foundation for two-way engagement and problem solving between law enforcement and the community. More accurate reporting will ultimately lead to a better understanding of hate crime, which in turn will enable informed decision-making around preventing and addressing this type of offense.

There have been 44 reported incidents of hate crime in Burlington since 2012. The data can be accessed below or as a data file here. The BPD will update the data periodically as incidents occur.
